

Fur Trimming a Strong Feature on Fall Suits

Furlier skirts have arrived! Many of the dressmakers modify them by having an underskirt beneath which is as tight as of yore, others are side pleated, having yoke effects at the top to lessen the fullness around the waist.

Coats are made with skirts which are pleated or cut circular, reaching often to the bottom of the dresses. A stunning model in seal brown duvetyne is trimmed with silk cord embroidery. The coat is long in front with a wide belt, or yoke, from which the skirt is hung. The skirt is pleated at the back and draped up at the sides. In the back the coat reaches quite below the knees.

In one of the Paris shops a wonderful smart wrap was shown of heavy long-haired cream-colored plush with a lining of brilliant brocade crepe. A large collar of black monkey fur was a distinguishing feature of the coat, with which was worn a barrel-shaped muff of the plush.

A Dress of Black Broadcloth Nattily Trimmed with Braid

A new fur coat exploited in Paris principally by Drecol, and is plain ordinary, every day coat! We have heard of cat and we have become used to monkey, but goat is hard to imagine as being an artistic addition to our latest frocks.

Coats are being made of camel's hair cloth, wool velvet, and fur cloth and for the sport's coat or suit, tweeds are both serviceable and smart.

The coats to suits are all lengths from the short eton and bolero jackets to long coats reaching to the bottom of the skirts.

Fur collars and cuffs trim almost all coats and in place of the fur often fur cloth is used. The cloth so closely resembles fur that it is almost impossible to distinguish the difference, except by the feeling.

A wine-colored velvet suit was trimmed with thick cords of the velvet running around the waist, giving a very military effect. A large velvet button, embroidered in fine steel beads, finished each cord, while the large collar and cuffs were of chin-chilla fur.

Raccoon fur trimmed a suit of beige panne velvet combined with broadcloth. The wide circular skirt was of broadcloth, with flat folds of the same material stitched on the skirt from waistline to hem. The cutaway coat was of panne velvet with long tails in the back. The trimming of this coat consisted of a fine embroidery in blue silk floss.

Belts of fur on many coats are extremely smart.

For a late fall street dress, before the weather demands a heavy wrap, the frock illustrated with its smart short basque and banded long tunic, is especially suitable. The development is in black broadcloth with braiding on the front, on the cuffs, and in band effect, around the bottom of the skirt.

The oddly shaped hat worn with this costume is made of black velvet and is bound around with bronze gold braid. This is a becoming and smart finish to many of the velvet hats of the season.

For solid comfort as well as good style there is nothing like the second illustration. Both plain waist, which buttons up the side in the most approved Russian manner, and the moderately wide pleated skirt are developed in dark green serge. The revers, cuffs, and sash are of striped silk in autumn colors, which adds a seasonable touch to the costume.

The jaunty hat completing this costume is a blocked felt hat, trimmed with ostrich plumes having the stems wired to stand up, and the fronds curling about it to take away the stiffness.

The type of gown widely shown and aptly called the "daguerreotype" style has a quaint irresistible charm. One such dress of brown silk poplin reminds one distinctly of the Civil War pictures. The skirt is full and has bias bands that go round and round the figure. With this is shown a coat of velvet, which curves in at the waist and flares at the hips, and buttons down the front with bullet shaped buttons.

Another stunning dress of this same variety was worn by an unusually fine looking elderly woman. The bodice was a short basque, having points at the front of the waist, and the skirt was made with a very full tunic of black lace, having a wide band of velvet at the edge, above that a narrower band, and above that a still narrower one. Beneath this tunic was a very narrow satin underskirt which scarcely came to her ankles.

In millinery black velvet predominates. Small hats with a touch of gold or silver are very smart, especially if there is a military air about them. It seems queer that hats are growing larger when one reflects that in August New Yorkers put on velvet hats, which were very small and afforded no shade to the eyes, while now with Fall and Winter approaching, the larger sailors with soft crowns are coming rapidly to the fore. A novelty for these larger hats is to have them cut in scallops, square or round, and ribbon bound.

Naturally military and naval effects will be strong and are evidenced in a stunning admiral's hat. The headgear of the German, Russian, Austrian, British and French soldiers have all been copied more or less by the wideawake designers of hats.

The New Short Pleated Skirt with a Blouse Having the Russian Closing

Fur hats are appearing for winter wear. These are made entirely of one or two furs or fur combined with velvet in stunning effects.

Monkey fur is being used a great deal for edging and as trimmings for hats, in much the same way that any fringe might be used. Narrow bands of fur make a very effective trimming for velvet hats.

Fur, combined with gold and silver flowers, make a very stunning trimming. Small velvet roses with marabou edgings are smart and will be worn, also, in corsage bouquets. Pheasant tails in black, bronze, gold and silver are used for the fashionable high trimming for hats.

DEAFNESS CANNOT BE CURED

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give one hundred dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by Catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

was born in Medina and educated in the public schools. He lived in Medina county all his life except about four years in Akron in the employ of the C. A. Collins Carriage Co., and the Whiteman Barns Manufacturing Company.

A carriage blacksmith by trade. The schooling of practical things that MUST be to live and keep straight with the world together with a determination for success in life and be a man among men, to be respected and trusted in any way that business or duty might call, are the qualifications I offer as a subject for your consideration and ask for your support at the November election.

And should I be elected I will promise you the services of a man and officer to the best of my ability for the people.

Respectfully yours

EFFICIENCY EXPOSITION

Local bankers have been invited to co-operate with Cleveland Chapter, American Institute of Banking, Cleveland, in promoting the Cleveland Business Efficiency Exposition to be held November 14-21.

A delegation will go from here. The program and date for entertainment of delegations from this locality will be announced later.

This will be one of the largest business shows ever held in this country. Wigmore Coliseum, the hall, is 10,000 square feet larger than the Coliseum, Chicago, and 20,000 square feet larger than the 69th Regiment Armory, New York, where annual business shows are held.

At the Cleveland show there will be a very complete display of office appliances, business devices, systems, and supplies of all kinds for factories, stores and offices, and an exhibit of graphic arts and advertising. Business men who attend will be able to see the devices in operation and to learn more about them in a few minutes than they could by weeks of ordinary investigation.
